Washington, DC-MD-VA-WV - Tenacious inventor, entrepreneur and mom of five, Tiffany Copon, living with and is an active advocate for the disease Lupus, presented her product Bebé PODPants™ and won Gold! Coined as the "Next BIG Thing in Infant Clothing Since the Undershirt", the product is a clothing garment that offers busy parents of babies, a unique and functional alternative to pants, socks and shoes! Because it's worn over baby's legs, up to the waist, with a convenient opening for car seat or stroller buckle access. "We are OVER THE MOON that we won overall in our category and very grateful to have participated in such a well-produced show. Receiving a wealth of information from this years speakers such as, AJ Khubani, founder of TeleBrands and Brook Drumm from Science Channel's All-American Makers, to name a few, that will be used to help take Bebé PODPants™, product and brand to the next levels. But the most exhilarating opportunity by far, was pitching to Shark Tank producers", said Mrs. Copon. She continues, "My advice to other innovators, is to try to make INPEX®, Invention Trade Show their first stop in their invention conception journey, as this was an incredibly informative launch-pad for Bebé PODPants™, with the only regret being, not participating earlier on".

INPEX®, the invention trade show, brings innovators and industry together under one roof. This gives exhibitors the chance to gain exposure, generate interest and receive feedback for new products and invention ideas! This not only gives inventors a chance to meet with representatives from businesses and companies, but also helps exhibitors to learn more about the business, legal and developmental aspects of inventing, via the George Foreman Inventor's University. Which features a number of different seminars, presentations and panel discussions geared toward educating inventors.
